Events Calendar $1000

pxEvents equips your Web site with the ability to display the most up-to-date happenings. pxEvents is an easy to use interface for adding information to your Web site to keep visitors abreast of upcoming events at your organization or company. This system is an ideal way to communicate important dates or events such as meetings, open houses, fundraisers, and more. A designated site administrator(s) from your company is given a login to access a management interface where they are able to add, edit and delete events. An added benefit of this system is the ability it gives you to constantly update your site with changing content which may improve your search engine rankings and draw more visitors to your site.
